++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Rain extending eastwards. Mild with strengthening winds.

Today:

Dry, bright morning in the east. Patchy light rain on the West Coast becoming more persistent and heavier later this morning, extending east to most places early this afternoon. A mild day with strengthening southerly winds and coastal gales later. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:

Cloudy and mild with some heavier rain at first. The rain will move away overnight with clear periods developing later and turning cooler. Lighter southwesterly winds. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tuesday:

A much brighter, cooler day with sunny spells. There will be scattered showers but they will pass by quickly thanks to the fresh or strong southwesterly wind. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:

Bright spells and scattered showers with fresh or strong southwesterly winds. There may be prolonged rain and a risk of gales for a time on Friday.
